

machines at the rate of sixty a week, and the output probably has been increased since then. This would account for the construction of 1,800 machines up to May 1.

The amount of breakage is not definitely known, but the average life of an airplane, as reported to me, is seven hours of actual flying. That sounds small, but an extraordinary amount of work can be done in seven hours of flight.

We will have to come to it. We are far behind the rest of the world. To attempt to use our land and naval forces without proper aerial service would only jeopardize them, and certainly we are unprepared in that respect. But it must be remembered that no European power is likely to attempt to invade this country while the present struggle is on—and that is fortunate, perhaps.

DANIELS SEES NEW ERA.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—(Special)—Secretary of the Navy Daniels made the statement today that lessons taught by the European war would undoubtedly result in changes in naval architecture and equipment just as radical as those that followed the introduction of the Monitor type of vessel to naval warfare.

The appearance of the monitor in the American navy revolutionized naval construction and equipment, and it is agreed that with the close of the European war the necessity for changes in naval architecture will be fully demonstrated. Therefore the secretary of the navy would organize the best inventive genius of the country and set to work at the time when rebuilding along other lines will be necessary.

Will Call on Inventors.

According to an announcement made by Mr. Daniels yesterday, it is his intention with the close of the European war the necessity for changes in naval architecture will be fully demonstrated.

Therefore the secretary of the navy would organize the best inventive genius of the country and set to work at the time when rebuilding along other lines will be necessary.

If Secretary Daniels' plans are carried out, all the present agencies of the department that have to do with the testing of material and experiments with inventors associated with him, in conjunction with American naval officers. At present the department conducts an experiment station at Annapolis that tests fuels. It operates another station at the Washington navy yard which experiments with devices used on air craft and submarines.

Noted Inventors Will Help.

Ordnance officers of the department are constantly engaged in experiments to improve guns and ammunition. Secretary Daniels contemplates enlarging all these activities and merging them into one immense laboratory, in which Mr. Edison and other inventors of note may be invited to bring their naval devices designed to bring the American navy up to the highest degree of efficiency as a fighting machine.

Secretary Daniels was formally advised today by R. S. Hutchinson, personal representative of Mr. Edison, that Mr. Edison would gladly accept service on the advisory board if the secretary of the navy is about to establish. The personnel of this board will be distinguished. Among those mentioned for membership are Alexander Graham Bell, Orville Wright, Prof. H. A. Fessenden, John Hay Henson, Hudson Maxim, and Henry Ford.

It is understood that Mr. Wright will be invited to become a member of the board.

Daniels Will Choose Leaders.

Ranking naval officers and Secretary Daniels will choose who are to be the leaders in their particular fields of endeavor, and no doubt is expected that all those who are invited to give their services to the navy will follow the lead of Mr. Edison by accepting.

Denies Acceptance of Edison.

Orange, N. J., July 15.—(Special)—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison said tonight over the telephone that Mr. Edison had not accepted Secretary Daniels' invitation to head the new naval bureau of invention.

"Mr. Edison is very busy," she said. "He is now considering the invitation. I am trying very hard to induce him not to accept. He works too hard now."

FLORIDA LAND COMPANY BOOKS SEIZED BY U. S.

Federal Agents Confiscate Records of Concern to Hunt for Evidence of Misuse of Mails.

Books and records of the Florida Land Company were seized by federal agents last night in a raid upon the concern's offices in the Westminster building. The records were taken to the federal building to be searched for proof of alleged misuse of the mails.

William F. Greenwood of Bryant & Greenwood, operators of the company, insisted his frauds had been committed in the sales.

He sold about 45,000 acres of land at an average price of $17 an acre," he said. "We had approximately 5,000 buyers. The land we sold is good. There is some selling in the Florida everglades at this time, to my knowledge, that is located near a completed canal, for less than $50 an acre."

"Our land is traversed by three canals, each planned by the state of Florida on plans recommended by state engineers. Lake Okeechobee, which formerly overflowed and flooded the everglades, is drained by these canals."

AIR RAID IN 40 MILE GALE ON GERMAN MUNITION DEPOT

Washington, D. C., July 15.—An aerial squadron of thirty-five aeroplanes ascended this morning in spite of a wind blowing forty miles an hour and bombarded the rail road station strategically established by the Germans at Vignemelle-les-Hattonchâtel, says an official war report given out today.

This station serves the region of the Calonne trench and that of the forest of Argentan. Important stores of every kind, and particularly ammunition, were stored there.

The aviators dropped upon these objectives 171 bombs of ninety kilograms each. The bombardment started several fires. All of the machines returned, although they had been violently camouflaged.

CREW OF CHOCATW SAVED.

Vessel Which Struck and Sunk Lake Steamer Brings Survivors Into Sarnia, Ont.

Pet Huron, Mich., July 15.—Capt. Charles Fox and crew of the steamer Chocatw, which was sunk off Presque Isle in Lake Huron, are safe in port at Sarnia, Ont., opposite here. They were brought in by the steamer Wahcondah, which collided with the Chocatw, causing it to sink.

NOTE RECEPTION DISAPPOINTING TO THE GERMANS

Hope Entertained That It May Yet Prove Basis of Understanding.

Hope for Understanding.

From numerous discussions I have had within the last few days with persons in close touch with the government, with public men, and with leading editors, it can be said the hope was generally entertained that the note would be clear and the belief it does not reflect American opinion, there is little doubt that this comment is given enough credence to cause a somewhat painful impression.

A private cablegram to me that the German note evoked no enthusiasm in America is confirmed today by a wireless from New York to the Frankfort Gazette. Considerable stress is laid on a Washington dispatch to the London Morning Post, that pessimistically as the note is viewed, there is little likelihood of a diplomatic rupture.

Expect New Teuton Drive.

Between the Meuse and the Moselle the operations are entering a new phase, the Russians having been successful in their counter offensive against the Austrians in the region of Krasnik. They have taken new positions in the hills to the north of that town and apparently are waiting for the Austro-Germans to make a move.

Active in Arras.

In the recent note of Arras the Germans have been particularly violent. Further damage to the city of Arras is reported. Yesterday the citadel and the cathedral were leveled, being set on fire by incendiary bombs.

HOLD VISIT AT SEA POSSIBLE BY SUBMARINE

U.S. Officials Say It Was Demonstrated in Case of Bark Normandy.

EARLY REPLY TO BERLIN, PROMISE OF PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13.— Secretary of State Lansing continued work today upon the memorandum which he will submit to President Wilson as a basis for the reply to Germany. The president probably will return to Washington the latter part of the week.

In connection with his return to the capital and his attitude regarding the use of his reply to Germany the president asked that the following message to Secretary Tumulty be made public:

"Please say that from the moment of the arrival of the official text of the German note I have given the matter the closest attention, keeping constantly in touch with the secretary of state and with every source that would throw light in the situation; that as soon as the secretary of state and I have both maturely considered the situation I shall go to Washington to get into personal conference with him and with the cabinet and that there will be as prompt an announcement as possible of the purposes of the government."

SEARH HENNING.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—Special Agent Arthur Sears Henning said that it is possible for German submarines to comply with the visit and search rules of the international law of warfare on commerce has been demonstrated by the case of the American bark Normandy, according to state department officials.

The conduct of the submarine in this instance is regarded here as strengthening tremendously President Wilson's contention that submarine warfare should be conformed to the rules which have governed the capture and disposition of merchandise by naval forces for more than 30 years.

Puts O. K. on Normandy.

The German submarine signed the Normandy to heave to, and the American captain complied with this legitimate order. Thereupon the captain of the German commandant, in compliance with the German commander's instructions, came aboard the submarine, inscribing his papers and handing them over.

By examination of the ship's papers the German commander determined that the Normandy was an American vessel chartered to an American firm and was carrying a cargo of lumber from Gijonport, Madrid to Liverpool. Germany has proclaimed a number of contraband articles.

Under the terms of war with Germany the German naval officer would have been entitled to take possession of the lumber if found to be contraband, but it would have been incumbent upon the German government to compensate the owners of the cargo.

No Complaint in Last Case.

Administration officials say that, so far as they can determine, there is no reason for complaint of the conduct of the submarine commander in the case of the Normandy and that if Germany adheres to this policy there will be no danger of similar trouble developing in connection with the passage of the American ships through the war zone.

The circumstances of the sinking of the Normandy are the same as those in the case of the destruction of the Lusitania. Each was a steamer of enemy nationality proceeding from the United States to England and each was torpedoed without warning.

The Leo carried a mixed cargo, and whether it included war munitions or other contraband is not known here.

From these accounts administration officials say that Germany is not likely to comply with International law and treaty obligations in the treatment of American vessels, but will deal with the remanents of enemy nationality as convenience dictates. Inasmuch as no warning was given the Leo the United States would have the same complaint against Germany as in the case of the Lusitania if it should transpire that American lives were lost.

Points Road for Wilson.

German embassy officials reiterated today that President Wilson intervened in the last note as the German government intended it to be read, he will find therein ample authority for saying to Great Britain, in substance, this:

"The United States government does not recognize that there is any authority in international law for a blockade or commerce such as the British admiral is conducting under the orders in council of March 12."

"The government of the United States protest that the British blockade and requests that it shall cease."

The government of the United States is also to say to the British government that it has assurances from the German government that if Great Britain will withdraw its naval practices to the rules of international law, Germany will cease its submarine warfare on merchant ships.

Terms Ground for Agreement.

There is a firm conviction in the minds of the German embassy officials that President Wilson will reach the conclusion from a careful reading of the note that the German government is in complete sympathy with his own purpose of securing freedom of the seas for neutral shipping.

They believe that this sympathy will form the main ground on which an agreement may be reached.

One thing which German officials here say, the Berlin government cannot control is that there can be any definite arrangement made with respect to submarine warfare which will be wholly satisfactory to the United States until Great Britain is compelled to yield compliance with the rules of war.

FILMS KEEP HIM YOUNG AT 99

Marquis de Lafayette Williams, Trainer of Squirrels, Likes Chaplin.

"Kid" Williams was anxious to ever see a new moving picture film yesterday and didn't care to spend much of his time talking on health subjects.

"Kid," otherwise Marquis de Lafayette Williams, will celebrate his ninety-ninth birthday in New York next Saturday, June 19, in the most sumptuous manner. And there will be no danger of trouble developing in connection with the passage of the American ships through the war zone.

The circumstances of the sinking of the Lusitania are the same as in the case of the destruction of the Normandy. Each was a steamer of enemy nationality proceeding from the United States to England and each was torpedoed without warning.

The Leo carried a mixed cargo, and whether it included war munitions or other contraband is not known here.

This is why he didn't want to miss it yesterday.

Keeps Him Young.

"It's in my regular routine," he said. "It keeps all how he can do 'em. It keeps me young watching his antics. Next to feeding the squirrels, smoking my pipe, and suchlike, it's one of the best things I do."

"After I had trained all those squirrels to do whatever I told them, I had a party with an entire new set that year. All the old ones had been killed. It's kind of hard to teach 'em because as soon as I blow my whistle for 'em the people come faster than the squirrels."

Tricks of Animals.

"I spent a good part of the morning over there and the birds jay and the blackbirds come with the squirrels. I've got a blackbird that will flap his wings and crow when I tell him to—if I promise to give him a peanut for it. I surprised a policeman over there the other day when I told him I could set a squirrel on him and she would go to him and she would grow and snap like a dog."

"After luncheon he had a pipe—one pipe a day. Can't see that it ever does me any harm. I've been smoking since '94. And while I don't expect to live to be as old as my grandfather—he was 114—I do expect to pass the hundred mark. I'm the first man in the King home, and the oldest one in it."

To Pull Last Two Teeth.

"Kid" Williams expects to begin life over again in a short time. He has been unable to eat the peanuts which have been enjoyed so much by his squirrels and birds. He has but two teeth. He is going to have these two pulled and get an entire new set.

"I've always been able to eat anything he said, "except for the lack of teeth."

The boy's hand from the Chicago Jewish orphanage will play tomorrow afternoon. It was there a year ago also, and the guest of honor was immensely pleased at the boys. He said the oldest in the band is 12 years old. In the evening there will be a dinner for him and a concert with 100 candles.

"Ninety-nine candles and one to grow on," explained Superintendent Moore, who described the nonagenarian as a "2 year old colt."

ASSERTS BRYAN MISLED BERLIN ON SHIP NOTE

'Tribune' Informant Bares Conversation with Dumba; Put Gerard "In Bad."

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.] What really took place between William J. Bryan, then secretary of state, and the Austrian ambassador during and after the conversation which confused the consideration of the submarine issue in Berlin was disclosed here today by one who knows all the facts.

The unpleasant situation which arose out of the talk between Mr. Bryan and Ambassador Dumba was the result of things which led up to Mr. Bryan's resignation.

It is asserted that the president was greatly annoyed at the incident and at the steps which Mr. Bryan was compelled to take to correct the misunderstanding.

Bryan Cause of Trouble.

That Mr. Bryan did give the Austrian ambassador to Berlin a positive answer to the question of what was received from Germany in response to the Lusitania note of May 15 is the positive assertion of Texan Tarsus's informant. From this arose the account of the incident in explanation of the incident not in the least altered the understanding of those in a position to have authoritative information.

After the Lusitania note of May 15, when feeling was running high in this country and the newspapers were printing articles suggestive of war or the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany, Ambassadors von Bernstorff and Dumba were doing everything possible to relieve the situation.

Dumba Only a Messenger.

As Ambassador Dumba was not directly involved in the submarine issue it was decided that he should call on Mr. Bryan and endeavor to learn from him just what was the attitude of the administration.

The ambassador accordingly called on state department and after some considerable effort got Mr. Bryan to discuss the question.

That in this conversation Mr. Bryan distinctly gave the ambassador to understand that all the United States really required of Germany was a friendly answer.

Mr. Bryan is understood to have said that while the United States had no objection to the language in the note of May 15, this note did not mean that this country was going to break off diplomatic relations with Germany if Berlin did not meet the president's demands.

Friendly Note Unfriendly.

"A friendly note," it is stated, is what Mr. Bryan said was wanted from Germany in reply. Mr. Bryan referred, it is declared, to the pressure of public opinion upon the president in explanation of the language of the note sent to Berlin.

That Ambassador Dumba came away from the state department much relieved from the rest. Piedmont has always been French rather than Italian.

Its natives have the shrewdness of the French, their keenness of insight, combined with the sunny temperament of the Italians. But they do not live in dreams, above all, they do have the unfriendly attitude of the French. They like organizing, and to that end is the unity of the Italian nation of today.

Cadorna has enthusiasm tempered with reflection. He is not a big man nor is he impressive looking. His drooping mustache gives him indeed an unilitary look, and although he is active, alert, with superb carriage, one does not forget that he is 65 years old.

The one thing for which Cadorna is admired more than anything else is the book he wrote in 1898, which has been a manual to all army officers since. It was called "War of Defense." Large Field Units and Rules of Fighting." Last year it was brought up to date under the title, "Frontal Attack and Tactical Skill."

His Advice to Troops.

This book is often quoted these days as giving Cadorna's theory of army discipline.

"Since it is only natural that the simplest and most necessary ideas do not succeed in permeating old habits and in being completely and promptly assimilated unless they are strongly and often repeated throughout the hierarchy of the army, constantly stimulating the individual, commanding, inspiring, and educating the soldier to do his duty," he writes.

So that since earliest days, Gen. Cadorna has been nothing but the talk of war around him, the hatred of oppression, whether that of the Austrians was of the church or of the Austrians. He has known what it is to go to bed nights with dread of what the morning would bring him.

PEOPLE STORM BEDFORD FOR 1868 THRILLS

Treasure Chest Double Murder
Trial Begins; Mrs. Porter Tells Weird Story.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Bedford, Ia., July 13.—(Special.)—Here in rustic Bedford, where occasional scenes of the Taylor county courts provide the only routine thrills, facts are stealing a backwind chapter from the yellow pages of mosquitoes.

A bronzed and wrinkled little old woman, to whose ears the hoofbeats of the James boys abroad were familiar sounds, has come to town with the avowed intention of bringing to book a band of murderers who rode of nights before King Corn tamed Taylor county.

Already the little old woman's story, as told to her, has caused a stir among the folk of frontier men upon whom Bedford in late years had learned to look with respect. Two of them are paralytics. One is wealthy. All are close to senility.

This morning the courtroom of Justice Sawyer was crowded as Bates Huntzman, one of the four, was arraigned. Sightseers from the country for many miles around packed the last foot of standing room.

Trial Begins at Night.

The case of Huntzman, however, was not taken up until 8 o'clock this evening. The lack of roads or trails to road communication with the outside world prevented the state from producing its two chief witnesses, Mrs. Mary Collins, Porter of Quimby, Mo., and Samuel Anderson of Lucas, Ia. They were here tonight, though.

Mrs. Porter took the stand and began her story of the murder. She related what she contended she saw on the September night nearly half a century ago.

She was subjected to a severe cross examination, but showed no signs of confusion.

Mrs. Porter's story was substantially the same that she told to reporters upon her arrival here this afternoon.

Interview with Mrs. Porter.

"Look a-here," she began. "I don't want to talk about it. I wrote up about Frank [Porter's] dad now, and he was a good friend to me in life. He didn't have nothing to do with what I'm going to tell about. He just ate with me once in a while, and—well, they said he came a-courting."

"Jonathan's pistol stuck in his belt and must have been near the heart. He got his pistol loose as he fell, but all his strength was gone and I took it away from him. And that was the end of Jonathan Dark."

FOUR FACE 27 YEARS EACH
FOR $1,000,000 OLEO FRAUD

Officials and Agent of Capital City Dairy Co. of Columbus, O., Guilty of Cheating Government.

Columbus, O., July 13.—Three officials and an agent of the old Capital City Dairy company were found guilty of defrauding the government out of revenue taxes on oleomargarine amounting to $1,000,000 by a jury in United States District court here tonight.

The defendants were tried jointly on two indictments which contained ten counts of conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud and nine charging fraud. On the conspiracy charges the defendants were found not guilty.

Under each of the fraud counts the penalty is a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000 and imprisonment of not less than six months, nor more than three years.

The defense filed a motion for a new trial.

Figures Small Cost to Kill Mosquitoes.

MOSQUITO fighters may profit by a computation of the cost of fighting mosquitoes compiled by H. C. Merriam, Commissioner of Fish and Game. In his effort to secure $10,000 from the city council for carrying on his anti-mosquito campaign in the city of Chicago.

Mr. Robertson has computed that in Chicago there are 1,218 miles of unpaved streets and 1,562 miles of paved alleys, 25 per cent of which have ditches or depressions holding stagnant water. There are 100,080 houses, 60 per cent of which should be oiled. To oil these alleys and ditches he calculates there are 170,000,000 square feet of mosquito area. Of this he estimates that one-half is so located that it will be advisable to oil it. The remainder is located far enough from habitations to be beyond the normal flying range of mosquitoes.

Dr. Robertson computes that the work can be done at the cost of 47,510 gallons of oil at 4 cents a gallon, representing a cost of $1,912.40, the delivery charge amounting to $500 more.

that other night. Sister Lizzie was sick and I made her go to bed while I sat up to mind the children. I was a curious little thing then: too curious for my own good, and when I heard voices back of the house I went out to see who was there. Four men, all tuggin' a blanket along. "A man's feet and legs were dragging and thuggin' out of the hind end of the quilt."

"It was moonlight, and I could see everything plain. I could even see who the boy was that was standing at the head of an ox team way back in the yard. One of the men with the blanket was Jonathan Dark, and I knew all the rest, too. Jonathan saw me the same time. He dropped his corner of the blanket and came running and shaking his fist. He swore worse than I ever heard before and said: 'If you ever tell us who we will wash our hands in your heart's blood! You bet I'll be scared. I skipped back in the house."

"And afterwards Jonathan told me he'd kill me unless I forgot what happened. I didn't dare to tell him I'd heard him and the other men talking about what they was goin' to do with all of money they got from those who never come to town again."

How Dark Tried to Kill Her.

"It was some years later that Jonathan followed me to Missouri. He came ragin' into our new home one night and said he'd been told I was talkin' too much. He reached for his pistol, and Mattie, my other sister, grabbed for a gun we kept in the house."

"Jonathan's pistol stuck in his belt and must have been near the heart. He got his pistol loose as he fell, but all his strength was gone and I took it away from him. And that was the end of Jonathan Dark."

JOSEPHINE'S DAIRY CO.

"Look a-here," she began. "I don't want to talk about it. I wrote up about Frank [Porter's] dad now, and he was a good friend to me in life. He didn't have nothing to do with what I'm going to tell about. He just ate with me once in a while, and—well, they said he came a-courting."

CHILDREN HONOR QUIGLEY TODAY; UNITE IN MASS

May to Whom Archbishop's Face Was Familiar Will Make March.

The strains of Chopin's funeral march will be heard by the children of the Chicago Catholic schools who will escort the body of Archbishop James Edward Quigley this morning from the episcopal residence to Holy Name cathedral.

There they will celebrate pontifical mass. It is to be a children's service.

Children of All Races.

Children of German, Polish, Bohemian, and English speaking parentage who remember the big "father" for his tender and kindly smile; the children of St.
Mary's school at Desplaines, who remember how an archbishop's summer home became a hospital for dependent old-timers and a host of others will walk steely down State street from the president's home to his place of labor.

First will come the children of the orphanages, training and industrial schools.
Among them will be those who have tasted of the dregs of life and felt something of its misery and suffering. They will keenly feel of all the passing of the life they honor, for it was through him they were helped.

Children of Parochial Schools.

Then, uniting the races, will come the children of the parochial schools—of Belgia, German, French, Italian, and English parents. Their halting prayers will ring out over the cathedral.

Five thousand strong, they will trudge to the cathedral, where at 10:30 they will sing in solemn requiem mass. They will sing precedence over every one—parents, priests, or laity. Only a few of the vast array of outsiders who will seek admission will be able to enter.

Last night, contrasting the solemn and impressive services of the three days the body of the dead bishop lay in its simple black casket in the little chapel of hope. In this chapel he was wont to say his early morning mass. It was the place where he went for meditation and oyer contemplation of some large matters.

Peace and Quiet in Home.

There were present only those who had come to the home in its occupant's life.

Tendence of the day gave way to the pace and quiet of the night, and except for the two monks, members of the Order of Alesian Brothers, who watched over body of the archbishop, the household was still.

Old masters hanging on the walls, the old pictures in the home, looked down quietly on the scene. The heavy carpeted steps swallowed the light footstep of the guards at the taper lighted bier.

The private body was arrayed in vestments of his episcopal station made by the children of Catholic schools and orphanages. They were as simple as the casket and the home.

Only members of the immediate family, sons, and priests were in the home—the only ones admitted past the police guardians during the day.

No Service of Any Kind.

Except for the private recitation of prayer for the dead by members of the family there was no service of any kind in the chapel. Small groups of intimates came and went during the day, but they were all. The curious crowds which filled the streets were kept at a distance.

The woman called during the afternoon who had known the archbishop as a child came to Chicago from Rochester.

The two brothers residing during the day on their trip from the east, refusing to stay on. Honored officers at each house of inmates.

B. Dunne will be master of ceremonies at official requiem mass this morning.

Rishop McGivick will preach sermon for the dead. Assisting them will be the Rev. J. J. Jennings, the Rev.
C. F. Monkski, and the Rev. Valentine
Kohr.

Friars of Chicago and之外 dioceses will begin the office for the dead at 8 o'clock this morning, and after the last unction, following the mass, will al-lume in a continual service of prayer until tomorrow morning.

Groves at Train.

Thousands filled the streets about the LaSalle street station as the special train bearing the body of the archbishop arrived in the morning, and countless crowds lined the sidewalks as the long procession of clergy and laity moved slowly through the loop and out State street to the cathedral. The hearse carrying the body of the prelate was preceded by an escort of fifty mounted police

I said "Yes" and went into another room. He ran.

I asked her: "Kate, are you in love with this fellow?" She said: "No, I don't care if you kill him." I replied: "The idea: as old as you and I are talking about killing somebody for some fault of yours!"

FEAR EFFORT TO KIDNAP FRANK; SOLDIERS READY

Georgia Authorities Hear Ru- mers of Plan to Attack State Prison Farm.

Atlanta, Ga., July 13.—[Special.]—Reports of proposed plans to kidnap Frank would be made on the state prison farm near Millidgeville in an attempt to get Leo M. Frank, who is serving a life sentence there for the murder of Mary Phagan, three companies of the Georgia national guard are in residence at Macon to leave for Millidgeville, which is twenty-six miles from the prison.

The orders came from the Atlanta military company at Desplaines, which recommended that the sheriff and state's attorney take immediate steps to see that the drama play is rigidly enforced.

In Chicago the July grand jury heard
evidence of bootlegging in Desplaines.

Indictments were reported to have been issued against Fred Thomas, his son, Fred
Thomas Jr., and Clarence Thomas, owners
of a notorious blind pig which had been the object of attack of women's clubs in Desplaines and Park Ridge.

What Evanston Jury Said.

After holding Lee to the court, the verdict of the coroner's jury was:

"Further, from the testimony presented, we, the jury, are of the opinion that beer and whisky were sold at Richard Marhs' place in Cook county, where the shooting occurred, and that the above offense occurred, and that the jury recommend that the state's attorney and the sheriff take immediate steps to see that the law governing the sale of beer and whisky be rigidly enforced at the above mentioned place, and in all other places of its kind in Cook county, in order that any other violators of the law be punished to the full extent of the law."

Advise from the state prison farm to night state that everything is quiet there and nothing is known of a purpose to attempt to get Frank.

Willard Wall of Murphysboro

Murphysboro, Ill., July 13.—[Special.]— Willard Wall, president of the First Nation, was killed early today when he was o'clock this morning to take a ride with the

TWO JURIES AID BLIND PIG WAR

Evanston Negro Held for Killing; Thoma Cases Up for Action.

ASK LAW ENFORCEMENT

Two juries yesterday put forth their best efforts to stamp out the blind pig.

In Evanston a coroner's jury held Alfred Lee, a negro who shot and killed George Maxwell in the unlicensed saloon run by Richard Marhs, to the grand jury for manslaughter. The jurors also recommended that the sheriff and state's attorney take immediate steps to see that
the drama play is rigidly enforced.

In Chicago the July grand jury heard
evidence of bootlegging in Desplaines.

Indictments were reported to have been issued against Fred Thomas, his son, Fred
Thomas Jr., and Clarence Thomas, owners
of a notorious blind pig which had been
the object of attack of women's clubs in Desplaines and Park Ridge.

Baron Says He Did Not Give $1, 200 to Man Alleging Robbery.

Baron Kurt Reiswitz und Kaderas,

German vice consul in Chicago, denied yesterday, according to the police, that he had given $1,200 to Karl Meyers, who reported he was robbed of the money while in an automobile with a woman Monday night. The vice consul made the statement to Detective Sergt. Harry Smale who is searching for the woman Meyers accuses of robbing him.

GERMAN AND BRITISH OFFENSES.

It has been the disposition of the American government to hold to the position that it is dealing separately with the nations which offend against the rights of neutrals. It has insisted that the wrongs done the United States by Great Britain do not enter into its case with Germany. Without as much pointed assertion we have maintained that the wrongs done us by Germany do not concern the British.

This is admirable in theory, but it does not hold so well in fact. We cannot maintain that English set lawlessness against us is without effect upon Germany. We maintain, rightly and in spite of a malignant and shrewd attack upon the right, that we shall make and sell war supplies to whatever nation may get them.

The distortion of historical fact, of considerations advanced in the name of humanity and of considerations of public policy, contrived to disturb our knowledge that the manufacture and sale of arms, right, has few parallels, but we persist and we shall persist.

The American people are amiable. They might be aroused by the appeal to them to stop slaughter by stopping the making of money in the sale of instruments of slaughter. This is the hope of the propagandists, who fail to see that their argument is a prayer that their enemies be delivered helpless into their hands, to be killed without the means of resistance.

We sell arms and explosives. The enemies of Germany may get them and transport them. We sell cotton, but Great Britain maintains that we may not sell it even to nations not at war because from the neutral nations it will find its way into Germany and Germany must not have it.

We sell copper, but our trade with neutral nations may not be undisturbed because Germany might get the copper from the neutral nations.

The German and the British invasions of our rights are related. We cannot demand of Germany a strict compliance with international law and submit to British noncompliance with it. Principles, if they are to be insisted upon, must sweep the boards. Compromises, if they are to be made, must be compromises with all nations.

We can concede that the transport of military supplies is a hazardous military undertaking. It cannot in fairness be protected by the mask of non-combatants.

If a transport of troops were sunk by a submarine it would be an act of legitimate war. A ship laden with shells and guns carries what makes the ships effective.

THE NEW ANTI-VICE CRUSADE. Whether or not he has faith in the effectiveness of any law or crusade designed to blot out commercialized vice in Chicago the "average citizen" can subscribe to the present efforts with a great deal more enthusiasm than previously. Even granting that it is not the most intelligent and far-sighted solution, a purging campaign under the injunction and abatement act and the Kate Adams bill is not brutal and absolutely ineffective at the same time.

It strikes somewhere near the source of the commercialized system by hitting at the property owners who rent or lease for immoral purposes including a punitive imprisonment for divorcees and by giving the inmates a chance through education and humane encouragement.

The injunction and abatement act forces the owner of suspicious premises to furnish a bond to the court that the property will not be used for immoral purposes and gives the state the power to sell furniture found in objectionable places. The Kate Adams bill is designed to supplant the fining system, where women are hauled up before the court. Efforts will be made to cure disease during the period of sentence and to reacquaint the patient to wholesome employment. The pander who has paid off the fines in the past and thus tightened his hold upon the victim will be relieved of his usefulness and it is thought will pass out of existence to some extent. The legal system, which, in fact, has worked to make the court that accepted the fine & partner and the women upon whom it was levied more enslaved, has finally given way before a more enlightened method.

If the court, the police, and the prosecuting officials will give the new law a chance Chicago can go about the new house cleaning with new conviction.

HOTHOUSE LEGISLATION.

Democracy ever makes haste slowly. Now that legislation is freeing itself from corporate corruption, popular government finds itself face to face with a new type of special interest which it is not easy to attack, because its representatives are, for the most part, sincere, unselfish people. We refer to the numerous "good causes" which by virtue of highly organized minorities are able to wring from hard pressed legislators laws that affect the more or less indifferent and inarticulate majority.

The activities of small groups of well intentioned people concentrated steadily upon the state capital at Springfield transform that edifice into a sort of legislative hothouse. Out statute books are not lacking in examples of enactments that are good, but nevertheless "forced." Just as greenhouse plants are brought to maturity ahead of season. We rejoice that the Legislative Voters' league is able to report in a recent bulletin: "Almost every bill backed by social and charity workers was sent to the governor." If, however, this proves that public opinion was not as far advanced as the sentiment crystallized in this legislation, the new laws will work discredit not only to the unselfish interests which labored so hard to secure their enactment, but will add to the discredit that is already upon us as a people for multiplying laws which have little force behind them.

But "the way out" which every observer of human progress is always seeking, in this case does not consist in lessening the concentrated efforts of unselfish minorities, but in laboring in season and out of season to bring throughout the state that standard of intelligence which will put real "punch" in good new laws, as well as serve as a check upon ill advised proposals.

EDISON, DANIELS, AND THE NAVY.

A little experience with the habit of thought displayed by Josephine Daniels, secretary of the navy, casts distrust of it. This frequently may be unjust, but it generally is wise.

Mr. Daniels has asked Thomas A. Edison to serve as an adviser of a board of inventors seeking to make and develop naval engines and instruments of war. Mr. Edison has accepted.

That idea has every appearance of worth, and probably it ought to be praised and supported without distrust, but it is a misfortune to be unable to dismiss the suspicion that impracticability will be found at the bottom of it.

Mr. Daniels has not revealed the open mind to expert suggestion. He has been unjust to the trained opinion in the navy and has made it difficult for the official advisers of the government to present their statements of the navy's needs. He was particularly unfortunate in his treatment of the men who wanted to say that the submarine service was perilously defective. After the bush had been put upon the men who knew what was the matter with the submarines, the boats went into maneuvers, where no bush could be applied, and proved that there was a great deal wrong with them.

It would be unfair to blame Mr. Daniels exclusively. It is a fault of impatience to select an individual and pound him for all the faults of the system of which he is a part. Mr. Daniels has invited this injustice by being so glowingly and wholeheartedly an offering of American politics spoiling American efficiency.

He has had a little more than his share of criticism, not that he has not deserved most of it, but it has been too particularized. Mr. Daniels is only an expression of general political thought and must be considered as a part of the whole and not as the whole.

It is a trick of politics to make a diversion in a conspicuous manner to attract public attention from discovered mistakes and it may be apparent to Washington bureaucracy that the nation's faith in the administration of the navy is weakened.

The application of the bush did not keep all the facts from getting out and opinion is becoming disturbed.

To enlist the services of the best known inventor in the country may serve to allay distrust and convince the people that the most intelligent efforts are being used to bring the navy to its highest mark of efficiency.

If this impression were created and the work were not done, Mr. Daniels' excellent idea would work out to a total loss. It may be presumed that Mr. Edison knows no more about adequacy in the navy than the Archbishop of Canterbury does, and if Mr. Daniels establishes the belief that because Edison is giving his services as adviser to a board of naval inventors the country may go back to sleep on the question he will do more than the ordinary amount of damage.

It may be a popular conception that the strength of the navy can be increased miraculously over night by some tour de force of invention; that marvels can be called into action which will remove all the bad consequences of years of neglect. This is a year of popular wonders, but there is not a machine in action, which has not a history of slow development. The development has been inordinately slow because of skepticism and hostility to innovation.

We sell arms and explosives. The enemies of Germany may get them and transport them. We sell self cotton, but Great Britain maintains that we may not sell it even to nations not at war because from the neutral nations it will find its way into Germany and Germany must not have it.

We sell copper, but our trade with neutral nations may not be undisturbed because Germany might get the copper from the neutral nations.

ARE WE DRIFTING AGAIN?

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

We do not mean to suggest that the problem before the president is easy of solution or that the next step is to be taken without careful study and consideration. Even to a government with a clear scheme of procedure before it the question what to do next must bring many taxing anxieties. It is announced that the American government will surrender no rights. But how to maintain them? Not by merely standing pat on former declarations through reiteration. We may talk and write notes until doomsday, but if we fail to advance our cause in some material way Germany has us on the run. This is the great difficulty of the moment. We have arrived at a parting of the ways. The German note has accomplished this much for its sender, Washington must make the next move; and if it does not go forward it backs down. How important then for the government to have some definite program to use as a basis of its future policies.

TRIAL OF THAW TO END TODAY; EXPECT VERDICT

State Closes in Sanity Hearing; Alienist Says Slayer Attempts Hypnotism.

New York, July 13.—The state rested its today in the sanity trial of Harry K. Thaw, the jury's verdict in which, if approved by Judge Hendrick, will determine whether the slayer of Sanford White shall be returned to Matteawan or his liberty be restored. The case will reach the jury tomorrow, and a verdict is expected during the afternoon.

After the announcement by Deputy Attorney General Cook that the people's case had been closed John B. Stanchfield, the attorney for Thaw, stated to the court that he would require about fifteen minutes for reading at the opening session tomorrow morning. No other witness, he said, would be called.

Thaw Has Hypnotic Eye?

A new angle to the mental insanity of Thaw was given by Dr. Austin Flint, the alienist, who resumed the stand today. He was being nagged by John R. Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel, to whom he had admitted yesterday he had seen no signs of insanity in Thaw but the last trial.

"Did you see him do anything in the chair or in this courtroom now indicating insanity?" Mr. Stanchfield demanded.

"Yes," Dr. Flint replied.

"What was it?"

"Thaw tried to hypnotize me by staring at me."

"Where?"

"When I was sitting down there on the floor he stared at me steadily for fifteen minutes with the intention of hypnotizing me. I've seen hypnotics at work. He tried it repeatedly."

Charge Causes Laughter.

An outburst of laughter followed the statement and Justice Hendrick threatened to have the room cleared if it was repeated.

Judge Hendrick regarded the alienist with some interest.

"Do you mean to say seriously," he asked, "that you think Thaw tried to hypnotize you?"

"I certainly do," was the reply. "It's in the testimony, I think, that Thaw took me in his confidence."

"About that," said Thaw, in an undertone to the reporters. "I never took less than hypnosis in my life, and I have never taken it again."

"Can you state with reasonable certainty that you are present time Thaw is sane or insane?" asked Deputy Attorney General Becker.

"He is insane," the witness replied.

Dr. Baker admitted he observed no signs of insanity in Thaw during the present trial except that while on the witness stand he had persisted in answering questions after objections had been raised by his counsel. This tendency, he admitted, was indicative of bad judgment.

Dr. Baker said he thought Thaw was suffering from constitutional inferiority with a paranoid trend.

Dr. Kieb agreed with Dr. Baker that Thaw was suffering from constitutional inferiority with a paranoid trend. The only evidence of this he had noticed during the trial, he declared, was that Thaw's replies on the witness stand were somewhat rambling and incoherent.

Asked Opinion on Murder.

One of the most effective points made by Stanchfield was with regard to the state of Thaw's mind when he killed Harry White. It had been shown that MacKenzie told the Thaws that White didn't believe Evelyn cared anything for Harry and that he was going to win her away from him.

"Don't you think a story like that could have stirred the manhood in that?"

"Yes," admitted the witness.

No doubt in your mind that Thaw was absolutely devoted to Evelyn—was in love with her, in fact. Thaw, after maintaining a secret relationship with her, married her, took her home to his mother, and did all he could to lift her above the standard given her by White.

"Yes."

CHICKEN JOE INNOCENT, NEGRO LAWYER SAYS.

Joliet, Ill., July 13.—[Special.]—Ferdinand L. Barnett, negro attorney of Chicago, this morning took charge of the defense for "Chicken Joe" Campbell, negro convict held at the Will county jail as the slayer of Mrs. Odette Allen, wife of Warden Edmund M. Allen.

Barnett was sent from Chicago by friends of Campbell and the executive board of the Negro Fellowship league. He said:

"Barnett will not seek a change of venue from Will county where Campbell is brought to trial here in September."

"Chicken Joe" is not the brute the press would have the public believe. His story is connected and clear, and I feel confident he cannot be convicted.

Witnesses who have woven the chain of circumstantial evidence about him have not agreed on their own stories. No two of them have testified alike about his actions on the morning of the tragedy.

Asked why the negro had told such a halting story about the finding of the jewel case and pocketbook, Barnett said he could not talk of that.

ing would be and how the public would reward the act."

"All of which is perfectly consonant with a killing by a sane man."

"I suppose so."

Complaints of Thaw's Insanity.

Dr. Flint declared Thaw had come to consider him as an enemy.

"There was reason to think you were trying to keep him in a madhouse?"

"Yes."

The witness told of the effort made before the trial to send him to Matteawan, in which Delaney Nicoll, counsel for White's family; former Judge Elliott, counsel for Thaw, and Jerome all joined.

"Then Thaw's belief in such a plan was based on facts?" Stanchfield asked.

"Yes."

Dr. Flint said he had noticed Thaw was incoherent on the witness stand and occasionally rambled, but he could not recall a specific instance of either.

"Did you hear everything Thaw said on the stand?" asked Stanchfield.

"Not everything; my hearing is somewhat poor."

"Then, how do you judge that he had shown symptoms of paranoia?"

"Only by his retardation and occasional incoherence. Taken by itself, as I have said, his conduct on the stand would not have shown him to be a paranoid."

"In what way did he show retardation?"

"He was slow."

Others Hold Thaw Insane.

The other witnesses today were Dr. Marcellus T. Baker, assistant superintendent of Matteawan, and Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, a physician at that institution where Thaw was confined there. Dr. Baker testified he had examined Thaw on several occasions, had examined his will and his codicil, and that from these he had come to the conclusion that he was insane.

"Can you state with reasonable certainty that you are present time Thaw is sane or insane?" asked Deputy Attorney General Becker.

"He is insane," the witness replied.

Dr. Baker admitted he observed no signs of insanity in Thaw during the present trial except that while on the witness stand he had persisted in answering questions after objections had been raised by his counsel. This tendency, he admitted, was indicative of bad judgment.

Dr. Baker said he thought Thaw was suffering from constitutional inferiority with a paranoid trend.

Dr. Kieb agreed with Dr. Baker that Thaw was suffering from constitutional inferiority with a paranoid trend. The only evidence of this he had noticed during the trial, he declared, was that Thaw's replies on the witness stand were somewhat rambling and incoherent.

MOTHER REPORTS ICE FUND SAVED HER BABY'S LIFE

North Side Infant Near Death Restored to Health by Donations.

One mother on the lower north side believes that some contributor to the babies' free ice fund has saved the life of her baby.

"My poor baby was getting thinner and thinner," she told a visitor yesterday. "He was all skin and bones and had such a wistful look that it would make your heart break. At night he cried so much, but would not do anything. He kept awake, was irritable, and would not eat. I think he was getting over this stage of the disease."

"The baby is a young woman and said it was in connection with the ice fund. We got some tickets, and the team stopped the next morning. Now my baby is well again. She smiles again-like that all the time. It's because of the ice. Her milk is back now."

Many Similar Cases.

There are many cases like this one. There are many who are not getting the ice. It means a lot to every mother to have her baby well. If she lives in the tenement districts she cannot afford to call a doctor-unless she thinks the baby is dying. Babies get close to the brink before a mother knows it. It means all day and wake all night, usually. A small contribution means many smiles, many hours of sleep, many days of comfort.

ACTIVITY SHOWN IN REAL ESTATE ON SOUTH SIDE

Apartment Properties Figure in Two Important Deals; New Building Planned.

The apartment property at the southwest corner of East Forty-sixth street and Grand boulevard was sold yesterday to Northwicks, for an indicated consideration of $84,000. In exchange, Fred Becklenberg, the former owner, accepted a 4,500 acre plantation near Birmingham, Ala. The Grand boulevard site was improved three years ago with a three-story building containing twenty-four apartments. The lot measures 184x150 feet, and the gross annual rent amounts to $6,000.

Plans for another high class Hyde Park boulevard apartment were announced yesterday by Harry C. Levinson, who with Harry H. Blum has bought the land on the north side of the street, 200 feet east of Ellis avenue. The lot has a frontage of 80 feet on the boulevard and 207 feet deep.

Plan $50,000 Building.

Plans are now being prepared under Mr. Levinson's direction for a building to cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 for erection within a short time. The building is to contain six apartments of eight or nine rooms, each apartment to rent for close to $200 a month. The location is sufficient to provide a tennis court and handball courts in the rear in addition to the garage for which plans are being drawn. Harry Goldstein and Isidor Whitehead acted as brokers in the deal. The property was acquired from Wallace G. Clark and others for $20,000.

M. H. Calmer of G. H. Gottschalk & Co. announced yesterday he had acted for both parties in the lease of the after building, now in course of construction at the southwest corner of Clark street and Balmoral avenue. The lease runs for ten years and provides for an annual rental of $7,200. The building will be taken over by the Terminal Theater company, of which Nathan Ascher is president. The Calo Theater company, which owns the building, was represented in the deal by Thomas F. Lowe, treasurer.

In exchange for the building and lot he gave up a tract of vacant property on the east side of Woodlawn avenue between Hyde Park boulevard and East Fifty-second street, together with a three story residence at 4551 Ellis street. The two properties given in exchange have a reported value of $37,500, a figure which makes the deal an even exchange.

Hackensack, Minn., by Oscar Holmen for an indicated consideration of $26,000. ## Flickerings from Film Land by KITTY KELLY

"KINDLING"—Lasky. At Orchestra Hall.

THOUGH the art of motion pictures is on the uphill climb, it is quite safe to say that it will never get far beyond this production. Not that it will stop here at all, but that this is a classic which is near perfect that improvement on it would only be short-sighted.

It deserves to be held among great achievements as a record of high water mark of achievement on the part of a great director. Cecil de Mille; a gifted actress, Charlotte Walker; a skilled photographer, Alvin Langdon Coburn; a competent complete surrounding cast.

Miss Walker is an artist of supreme value for the screen, even in this her first appearance on it. We must hope she will often grace it again. Mr. de Mille is the director from the stage who has earned a pictures "from the bottom up" and the bottom was very far down indeed, as viewers of "The Virginian," for instance, will recall. Now he knows just the situation to make just how to use them. This picture represents a combination of these two personalities, ably assisted by the many others who are essential to artistic completeness.

In this tenement tragedy, wherever the primitiveness of the mother's spirit is brought out for a life fight, Miss Walker is every second the living woman struggling for the crowning love. Her simple, desperate efforts to get the $100 that will mean a home in the west and a chance in the open for herself, her husband, and the coming baby, grip the audience's heart, while its eyes are fixed on every shifting expression of her marvelously mobile face.

The situations of the poverty stricken home, the intense desire for pretty little things, the well known desire for a baby, the fixing of fancy things for the rich woman's pet dog, the arrangement that gives Steve, the crook, access to the house of the wealthy tenant, the struggle to ward off suspicion in regard to the money gained from pawning the brooch given her by Steve as her reward, the frantic effort to get away—all of these things border so closely on the mere comic that the audience cannot help but find the art of one or two but of the harmoniously working whole. For the full length, the picture carries a poignant thrill.

Everywhere there are a multitude of deft little touches, exquisite bits of pantomime that make one thankful the production is in the realm of the silent drama.

Those who scoff at pictures should see this and be convinced—or else they are hopeless or ever arriving at picture conviction.

Other pleasant things happen at the Strand also—a lovely truelove, a topic of the day, the charming "Two Cent Mystery" with Helen Baddeley, and music by Isaac Van Grove, pianist, and Cyrano Van Gordon, contralto.

Ziegfeld's Opening Delayed.

The Ziegfeld, which aimed to open on Saturday with "The Immortal Fight," was forced to postpone its opening date because of management's failure to get the picture on deck. It is now running there however, and is a good, virile story of corruption and graft mixed into politics and a strong man's effort to fight his way clear.

Summer Beauty Aids.

Copyright: 1915 By Antoinette Donnelly.

DID you ever stop to consider that the months with R's to their spelling credit can make or mar your beauty for the other eight? There is no better time for the feminine who seems to delight in tattooing her neck with a V and in baking her arms to a gorgeous autumn brown, and as for a hat, what does she care if her hair becomes of the bleached type so long as it is done by nature's chemical sunshine? No matter if her skin becomes sailor-like in its texture after several summers of this toughening process—it's health she is after, and that her conception of the way to get it. All of which is "too do-do-do." True, the sun's mouthfuls of skin-stimulating possibilities are all kinds, with sunshine thrown in, but we should not let reason run wild in our effort to get enough health stocked up to last us all winter.

A comparatively recent health promoter has come to us in the "person" of the auto, but judging from the unbeautiful outfit one sees on the road, femininity has not made the most of this friend. Of course, the amount of pure fresh air inhaled depends upon the country through which you tour, but no matter where this may be, I venture you will get more and a better brand of oxygen than that to which you are accustomed in the winter. I hope you have not been one of those people who have dreaded the bumps in the country roads. But comfort in clothing is absolutely necessary to happiness on route, especially on long tours. And you need not make yourself look ugly to be comfortable. Discard long corsets or else take out the sides. Wear a dark one-piece suit and the lightest of petticoats. If warmth is needed, make up for it in outer garments.

You must pay serious attention to your hairdo. Be wary of the more or less hideous auto bonnets on the market, unless you have found one that covers your head, has a brim, fits down snugly but comfortably, and is becoming. I insist upon the last point, for it is a feminine duty to always be as attractive as possible. Don't forget to wear over them a coat without one of some kind. Thus accoutred you are ready to inhale health, even if you do get some dust. And you will behold beauty, which in itself is good for tired nerves and blase eyes.

Harrimans Plan Trip to Orient.

Mrs. J. BORDEN HARRIMAN and his daughter, Miss Ethel Harriman, who are now preparing the summer in Lake Geneva, are planning to leave in August for California, where they will join Mrs. George T. Marcy, wife of the American ambassador to Russia, and sail with her for the Orient. Mrs. Harriman will go on the Peninsula hotel at San Francisco.

Mrs. Marcy, who with her sister and daughter, Helen, stopped at the Blackstone route from Washington to Burleigh, Cal., will not sail for Russia until the first week of September. Mrs. Marcy has not seen Ambassador Marcy since last because the dangers of the Atlantic would have been too great for the family to travel by ship. Mrs. Harriman has just been married and she opened it this month for the first time.

Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter, Mrs. Frederick D. Daniels, Mrs. Homer Stillwell, and Mrs. John J. Mitchell motored from Lake Geneva yesterday to join the board of managers of the Woman's Exchange at a luncheon given by Miss Grace Dixon, president of the organization, and later at Oconomowoc attended the sale at Mrs. A. P. Valentine's home, Danforth Lodge.

During this house party, which includes members of the board, will motor to Lake Geneva, where they will be entertained by the four Lake Geneva members, and on Thursday there will be a sale at Olympe Court, the home of Mrs. John J. Mitchell.

Mrs. Edward E. Butler, Mrs. Philip Schuyler Deane, Mrs. Thomas J. Lyon, Mrs. John Gary, Mrs. Joseph Gunawan, Mrs. John C. Allen, Mrs. William G. Martin, Mrs. Harrison Parker, Mrs. James Ward Thorpe, Mrs. George Lytton, Mrs. Donald Wag, Mrs. Hathaway Watson, and Mrs. Edward Pierce are the members of the board.

Mrs. Theodore Sheldon and her son, Theodore of 38 Bellevue place, will sail on July 21 for Panama and the San Francisco exposition. Miss Mary Sheldon, who is now in the east, will join her mother and go with her. Later Edward Sheldon, who is now at East Hampton, L.I., will join his family in San Francisco.

The Misses Dorothy and Margaret Andrews of 1888 Sheridan road, Evanston, have returned after spending a few days with Mrs. Frank O. Lowden at Sennepistip, Oregon, III.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Stephens of 130 Astor street are spending the week at Owatonna club, Lake Forest.

Mrs. Simon Thompson of Lake Forest will open her home today for the second of a series of performances given by Sister Guli, whose programs include works of the various Italian masters.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbert Davis and daughter, Miss Caroline Gilbert Davis, are spending the season at their summer home, Wauneta, Col.

Col. and Mrs. Nathan William MacCloskey of 568 Hawthorne place are at San Francisco until next week, when they will go to Lake Louise for several weeks.

The son, Alfred Bronson MacCloskey III, will join them. Col. MacCloskey will return to Chicago the last of the month.

The trustees of the University of Illinois will hold a meeting and luncheon at noon today at the Blackstone hotel.

The reception for Miss Kathleen O'Brien of the Irish Times of Dublin, which was to have been given yesterday afternoon at the Catholic social center, was postponed on account of the death of Father Michael O'Brien. Mrs. Andrew J. Graham will receive in honor of Miss O'Brien Friday afternoon at the Catholic social center.

Mr. L. C. Calkins and Mrs. W. H. McMillip will be the hostesses at the women's bridge party this afternoon at the Birchwood Country club, beginning at 2:30.

Is Your Auto in Line for Today?

M. AUTOMOBILE OWNER: Think for a moment how you would feel if today if you were a kid who hadn't had any fun for a year, maybe crippled, sick or up in bed and had to key yourself up for an automobile ride. You had promised your son and then failed to come. You'd feel pretty bad, wouldn't you?

That's what the Orphans' Day Automobile association wants you to realize when you ride downtown this morning. The association has promised a ride today to 300 kiddies and 600 widows who have a hard time to get along and must have 200 more automobiles than already have been pledged if a large number of their guests are to escape disappointment.

Flags have been distributed to the children and widows, and they've been promised an automobile will call for them today and take them on the long ride for ride.

Harry N. Fowler of the association said last night that too many automobile owners this year have depended on letting the "other fellow" do it. You can help out in the situation by taking or sending your automobile to Grant park at 10 o'clock this morning. South park police will put you in touch with the association's committee. You will be given an address to drive to for your load of happiness. The tourists are to be reminded to their places of abode by 4 o'clock, following a parade through the streets.

U. S. HAS FORCE OF 100,000 IN ITS BOYS' SCHOOLS

Military Academies and Colleges Turning Out Competent Soldiers and Numbers Grow.

ARE BETTER THAN RATED.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.
Here is a newly-discovered army of at least 100,000 trained men who might be called on in time of need by the United States.

Their military training and general education would seem to especially qualify them to serve as officers in a great volunteer army that ever should be needed, such as might be in the field.

More than half are college graduates. All the remainder have had at least the equivalent of a high school education, and each man has had from two to four years' military drill and training in military tactics. They range in age from 18 to 30 years.

One-quarter of this army of 100,000 men are now cadets in the various military academies of the country. It will doubtless surprise most people to learn that there are about 130 such institutions.

They are well distributed, almost every state having one or more. In California, for instance, there are eleven military academies; Illinois has eight, Missouri nine, New Jersey ten, New York twenty, and Virginia eleven.

Army Officers Supervise.

In a good many of the academies the work is under the direction of members of the regular army, detailed by the government. The number of cadets enrolled varies from 100 to 600 or more. Most of them the uniforms are worn regularly and military drill is part of each day's work. Practice marches and runs under camping conditions, are regular features in many of these schools, almost all of which are private institutions. In several the training and discipline are modeled closely after that of West Point and their graduates are smart and well qualified soldiers.

A sum of $50,000 is made up yearly by the students themselves from these military academies in the last ten years. Most of them have gone into business or professional life, but they still retain a good knowledge of military matters.

There are also in the United States some fifty-two so-called land grant colleges and universities in which under the provisions of the law, military drill and the study of tactics is compulsory. President Schurman of Cornell University estimates the number of young men in these colleges who are drilling regularly for ten or more hours a week at 25,000. Graduates of recent years who have had the benefit of the military training will add 25,000 more.

Scal Is Broadening.

It is true that in many of the colleges and universities the military training has been largely perfunctory, consisting of a few hours a week. But some of them, on the other hand, have paid much attention to the work. In the University of Illinois at Urbana, for instance, the student battalion numbers about 2,000 well-trained young soldiers. In recent years the improvement has been quite general.

In order to encourage college students to become proficient in military drill and discipline, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood recently recommended that out of each year's graduates 400 of the most capable be selected and commissioned to serve one year as second lieutenants and one year as ensigns. At the end of his year's service with the troops he would be at liberty to return to civil life, having means while gained experience which would be immediately valuable in case of war.

But that innovation would require action by Congress and it remains, so far, only a recommendation, though it has the endorsement of the war department.

It is another direction and on a broader scale steps have been taken to do a large number of colleges and high schools, for the second or third time, courses of military instruction have been opened under the direction of officers of the regular army.

Discipline Is Strict.

Admission to these is restricted to college seniors and graduates, up to the age of 20, and to students in the graduating classes of high schools. Each young man buys his own uniform and gets a word of $30 a week during the six weeks in which the camps are opened. The government furnishes rifles and all other equipment.

This year there are four college camps, the largest, which more than 600 college men are attending, has pitched its tent at Plattsburgh, N. Y. The others are located at Ludington, Mich., Chattanooga Park, Ga., and the Presidio, San Francisco. In all there are more than 2,000 college and high school students undergoing the five weeks' course of training.

In each of these camps the military discipline is strict. The men are divided into companies, commanded by officers of the regular army. Each serves as a non-commissioned officer during part of his stay. There is guard mount every night and the whole command is turned out at 5:30 each morning.

Problems Are Worked Out.

During the second and succeeding weeks there are practice marches and simple little problems are worked out, consisting of the regular army acting as the enemy and blank cartridges being used to make the work realistic.

To counterbalance the lack of enthusiasm at some of the land grant colleges, it was said that in many institutions

GIRLS FIGHT IN STREET AFTER ROW ON DANCE STAGE.

Miss Helen McDonough Fells Miss Irma Komlosy with "Biff" on the nose at Broadway and Lawrence.

With a swift piroette and a spring

Miss Helen McDonough, a dancer, gave her dancing partner a "biff" on the nose and knocked her into the street yesterday at Broadway and Lawrence avenue when she was called a scatty name.

Miss McDonough lives at 1000 Lawrence avenue with her mother. About six weeks ago she left New York to fill an engagement with a Chicago garden with her partner, Miss Irma Komlosy of 1217 Lawrence avenue. Both girls are members of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Their differences came to a climax the other night when Miss Komlosy, according to Miss McDonough, "let me fall on the hard floor" when she was supposed to catch her in her arms.

Everywhere there seems to be a general waking up to the fact that if we are to have "a citizenry trained in and accustomed to arms," some active training is necessary.

Railroads Are Alleged to Have Been Defrauded Out of Thousands by Allowance of False Claims.

Federal authorities yesterday arrested Charles Wickham Parker, head of the Interstate and Continental Freight Traffic bureau, on a bench warrant issued by Judge K. M. Landis. It was alleged Parker swindled four railroads out of thousands of dollars by fraudulent damage claims.

Former Gov. Folk of Missouri has been making a personal investigation for some time on behalf of the interstate carriers, of whom he is chief counsel.

Parker, who lives at 6920 Perry avenue, said if there was any violation of law by the company previous to his purchase of it a year ago he was not to blame. Since he has been at the head of the concern, he says, all claims have been genuine. Parker was released on $5,000 bond.

Mrs. Strong alleges the jewelry and money were stolen from her stockings during an automobile ride the night of May 26, six days ago. Mrs. Havlin suffered a lame illness and fell across her lap.

The alleged theft was discovered. Mrs. Strong says, as she and Mrs. Havlin entered a cafe on Wabash avenue and Mrs. Havlin dropped a change bag which had contained the earrings.

The police recalled the shooting which they say grew out of a quarrel over loan among a gang of young holdup men. Detectives went immediately to the home of Miller, who is 18 years old and has already served two terms in the St. Charles reformatory.

Lapin's watch and stickpin were found in Miller's room. Concerning Ginsberg's telephone number he told the police that he could get "fixed up" in case he got in trouble.

One "Cured" Patient a Day Freed at Elgin Asylum, Says Chief.

"Cured" morons are being liberated at the rate of thirty or forty a month from the state hospital for the insane at Elgin.

At the University of Michigan, for instance, the faculty voted recently 150 to 15 in favor of establishing military drill among the young men students, though that institution is not among the land grant colleges of the country. In many of the large eastern preparatory schools similar plans have been established among the boys.

RUST REPORTS
RALLY WHEAT

Bed Reports from Northwest and Better Export Trade Factors.

Black rust reports and advices indicating much larger export sales of new wheat were the principal features in the wheat trade yesterday, and prices for futures responded sharply to the more bullish reports. Claims of black rust were received from North Dakota, South Dakota, and western central Minnesota. So far no damage is claimed, but the fact that the rust has been discovered at an unusually early date caused a good deal of buying. Shorts were caught napping and there was free general buying by commercial houses. Futures prices were 1½¢ higher, the September leadings Minneapolis September was 4½¢ higher, shorts there covering on the rust advices. B. W. Snow reported finding black rust in southeastern South Dakota.

Export Sales Are Large.
Export trade developments were more favorable to holders. Estimates of the amount of wheat sold for August-September shipment were all the way from 1,000,000 bu. to 2,000,000 bu. Local exporters said they had plenty of inquiries, but could get no wheat. The country is not selling at all freely, although there were some indications of more hedging pressure in the southwest.

A feature that attracted the attention of traders was the bounces of September and July by export houses.

Offerings were light after the first hour. Initial prices were easier. During the day there were reports of rains at several places, and the predictions were for unsettled weather, which stimulated some buying.

Big Loss in World's Stocks.

Bradstreet's weekly statement of the world's supplies of breadstuffs was published, showing a decrease for the week of 2,974,000 bu. The total available supply is now placed at 88,743,000 bu., compared to 97,712,000 bu. a year ago. Stocks in port and in Europe showed a decrease for the week of 10,000,000 bu.

Cash sales here were 5,000 bu. and premiums for new wheat showed a big slump. No. 3 red selling at 3¢ premium over the July, a relative decline of 7¢, and after selling early 12¢ premium, new No. 2 red was 5¢ over bid.

Primary receipts were 346,000 bu.; last year, 1,840,000 bu. Receipts were 29 car loads, with 12 cars inspected yesterday. Northwest arrivals were 197 cars, against 217 cars a year ago, and Winnipeg had 128 cars against 224 cars a year ago. Clearances for the day were 432,000 bu.

Corn Recovery Early Loss.
Corn prices were helped by the strength in wheat. Early losses were recovered and resting prices were unchanged to ¾¢ higher. Crop reports generally were more favorable as the result of the weather having come over the belt. Cables were unchanged. The market offerings from the country were moderate, but the cash market was lower. At the decline there was a fair demand for short-term and sales were 215,000 bu.

St. Louis reported better advices coming from Missouri. Receipts were 272 cars, with 10 cars inspected yesterday. Primary receipts were 570,000 bu., against 408,000 bu. a year ago. Clearances for the day were 47,000 bu. The stock's stock showed an increase for the week of 500,000 bu., and the total United States and Canada stock is now 5,367,000 bu. against 7,309,000 bu. a year ago.

Fair Demand in Oats Trade.

Oats also followed the lead of wheat and closed gains of ¾¢ to 1¼¢. There was fair commission house buying and after briefly selling offerings were light. Cash houses were fair buyers of oats and there were no large sales. Primary receipts were 215,000 bu., with prices in the sample market being 12¢ lower.

Offerings of new oats to arrive during cutting in many sections. Receipts were 209 cars; inspected, 96 cars. Primary receipts were 498,000 bu., against 616,000 bu. a year ago. Clearances for the day were 373,000 bu.

Cudahy Bearish on Products.

Provisions were higher, covering by shorts as a factor. Offerings were not as heavy as recently and there was not much liquidation. The cash trade was moderate. Receipts in hogs were not quite so large as expected and the market in the yards was a little firmer. Receipts were 13,000, with 23,000 the estimate for today. Western receipts were 55,500, compared to 77,000 a year ago.

The Drapers' Journal estimated hog packing for the week at 442,000, against 363,000 a year ago. Lard deliveries on unit contracts were 750 tons. Receipts of products were 21 cars and shipments were 16 cars. Cash sales at Liverpool were 1 shilling lower for backs, hams, hamberland cuts, and lard.

Rye Prices in Collapse.
Rye was 10¢ lower, with mailing 74¢ Tsc; feed, 72¢ and screenings, 61¢. Receipts: 17 cars.

NEWS OF THE BUSINESS AND FINANCIAL WORLD, INVESTORS' GUIDE.

AMERICAN CAN EARNINGS UP

War Orders Cause Increase; Domestic Trade Normal; Stock Is Stronger.

It is learned authoritatively that earnings of the American Can company are still ahead of last year. One or two important crops were overdone in 1914 and this has affected the present demand. The outlook for the remainder of the company's fiscal year is about normal so far as domestic business is concerned.

As to war orders, negotiations have been pending for some time looking toward the production of shells and other articles easily manufactured by the American Can company. It was reported in Wall street that the company had ceded yesterday for $40,000,000 of war material and that an additional $40,000,000 would be closed within a short time.

Stock Active and Firm.

The facts and the gossip combined served to make the American Can company stock extremely active, and the price advanced to 51½. There was a loss of about 1 point at the close.

Earnings this year which may exceed in any considerable extent the figures of 1914, will be due to the contracts with the government.

Money Continues Easy.

The local money market shows no change of consequence. Commercial paper sells on a 3½ per cent basis and a volume of business is placed at 3 per cent. The ruling rate for average paper is 3½ per cent.

No demand comes from the country, and rates continue to rule low in the city. In New York dullness is reported in the market for prime bank acceptances.

This has been a feature for the last three months. No particular change is looked for earlier than the beginning of September. Rates are nominal at 3½/2 per cent for maturities of sixty and ninety days.

Steam Pump Reorganization.

If plans which have been under consideration for several weeks are carried through, one of the most important developments in rehabilitation of the International Steam Pump company will be entered into the management of investors connected with the General Electical company.

The General Electric company will not have any interest in the reorganized company, it is declared, but one at least of its prominent officials will be on board. A member of the family of the executive heads of the General

Electric also is slated for a directorship as representative of ownership by him of an investment in the pump department.

While the interest of the International Steam Pump company in the stock ownership is concerned, the plan under consideration will give them a leading voice in the management.

City Railway Bonds Approved.

The public utilities committee of the city has granted the application of the Chicago railway company for permission to issue first mortgage 5 per cent debt bonds to an amount of $1,402,000.

Pension also is granted to the Calumet and South Chicago railway company to issue similar bonds to an amount of $600,000.

Dividends Declared.

The International Nickel company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10½ per cent on the preferred stock, paying $10 a stock of record July 14.

The dividend of 5 per cent on the common stock of the Nipco Bay company declared yesterday is the first to be declared on this issue, since the initial dividend of 5 per cent on Aug. 31, 1910.

The Kerr-Lake Mining company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents each day Sept. 15 to stockholders of record

by 1.

Money and Exchange.

Money in Chicago is up 4½ per cent on collateral, 5½ per cent on commercial paper, and 4½ per cent on currency. New York exchange sold at 136 cents. Chicago bank clearings were 16,818.
